

the Ration

Search the Ration here

TWEET FACEBOOK

A News21 food and health reporting project by UC Berkeley School of Journalism

To see behind the scenes of The Ration on Tumblr click here

The Ration now on the iPad

Rethink the Food Label: A project by News21

VIDEO: GMORGANIC, A BOTANICAL LOVE STORY

He's an organic farmer. She's a genetic engineer. They're married.

By Kate McLean

It seems like their professions put them on opposing sides of agriculture, but UC Davis Professor Pamela Ronald and her husband Raoul Adamchak share a vision: they believe genetic engineering is a tool to make farming more sustainable.

← VIDEO: A FARM IN NEW ORLEANS

VIDEO: THE POLITICS OF FOOD →

RELATED STORIES FROM FARMING:

VIDEO: LOST IN SPRAWL
By Thomas Gorman

VIDEO: THE (OPEN-SOURCE) ECOLOGIST
By Mario Furloni and Thomas Gorman

VIDEO: THE FARM
By Brooke Minters and Kate McLean

VIDEO: FARMS, LIES AND VIDEOTAPE
By Vanessa Carr and Carl Nasman

RADISHES IN SUBURBIA
By Thomas Gorman

Part of the Carnegie-Knight Initiative on the Future of Journalism Education

National Projects
Gun Rights in America · 2014
Post-9/11 Veterans · 2013
Voting Rights in America · 2012
How Safe is Your Food? · 2011
Breakdown: Traveling Dangerously in America · 2010

School Projects
Changing America · 2010
Changing America · 2009
Election · 2008
Faith in America · 2007
Liberty vs. Security · 2006

About
News21
Carnegie Corporation
Knight Foundation
Awards
Join Our Team

Free Content
Creative Commons Use
Innovation
Media Partners

Resources
Setting up a Program
News21 Seminar
News21 Newsroom
Best Practices

Social Twitter
Facebook
YouTube
LinkedIn
Vimeo
Flickr